Resource management made easy: Booking solution for meeting rooms, workspaces in addition to visitor and car park management

Symetria with new booking solution for flexible facility management

Symetria AG, a provider of video/teleconference and multipoint data infrastructures, has expanded its product range with the Condeco booking management solution. The Condeco suite from the producer with the same name supports companies in the implementation of an efficient facility management concept creates transparency regarding the utilisation of conference and meeting rooms, workspaces (desk sharing), car parks, car pool and in the visitor and reception area, besides greatly simplifying the entire resource management.

Tagelswangen/Switzerland, XY January 2012 – The booking and management of conference and meeting rooms, workspaces, car parks, company vehicles as well as visitor and reception management is inefficient in many companies and/or the availability of the free resources is often totally lacking in transparency. Added to this, there is the time-consuming organisation of additional services such as catering, technical infrastructure (flipchart, projector, telepresence and videoconferencing solution), seating and guest management. With the Condeco booking management solution that goes by the same name as the English workspace management solution service provider, Symetria is now offering a management tool that enables companies not only to maximise the utilisation of rooms/desks and workspaces (from 10 up to 5000+ units) but also to accurately monitor and analyse them as well as to manage them individually and efficiently.

Resource management simplified

The Condeco software suite has been available on the market since 2005, has won multiple innovation awards and is used around the globe by more than 300 customers as well as several thousand managed conference rooms and resources. It is entirely scalable, supports multiple time zones and languages, features the option of setting up a telepresence connection automatically and supports the integration of web browsers, MS Outlook and Lotus Notes. If required, is also possible to integrate individual service providers to allow all the activities relating to the booking to be processed at once. Using the Condeco suite is intuitive, and can take place either directly on sit via a digital touch screen signage system or directly from the calendar in Outlook. Participants of a meeting are invited automatically by e-mail and service providers informed about the order. The booking itself can be viewed and checked at any time.

Complete conference service from a single source

The decision to actively market the Condeco booking solution was taken for a number of reasons, which Georges Leuenberger, CEO of Symetria, explains: "Condeco ranks amongst the leading providers of booking management solutions, has such well-known companies as the Atos Origin, BBC, Barclays, Reuters, Shell and Unilever amongst its customers and satisfies the highest of standards in terms of quality and reliability. We benefit from this and ultimately so do our customers, particularly in the area of conference services and managed services."

Comprehensive offer from A to Z

In addition to the Condeco suite that can be customised to the specific needs of a company, Symetria offers the installation of the software at the customer's premises, the configuration and customisation of the system including interfaces for the planning environment of videoconferences, training, support and software maintenance. A managed service is also available as an option.

Further information about the Condeco management solution is available directly from Symetria.
